Life: An Awareness And a Response

There are vast realms of consciousness still undreamed of by the vast ranges of experience, like the hidden realms of unknown horses, we know nothing of within us.

— H. Lawrence

We are people, you and I, and I think often we have forgotten that being a person bears with it a certain awesome responsibility. We are members of a government second. The question is...do you and I realize that we are members of a government?

An intelligent author, John MacMurray, in his book,

REASON AND EMOTION, has said: "the fundamental element in the development of man is life. It is the training of this capacity to live in the senses, to become more and more deliberate, to be mature.

It is a feature of the times, the modern man "live" without the pain and beauty of all that surrounds him.

In theory, you represent the student body. Your first job, therefore, must be to uncover that force which is supposedly all-powerful but frequently inarticulate: the student opinion. To represent such an amorphous and vague entity you cannot rely on your own opinions and your own common sense; your duties are not limited to attending one talk or two meetings a week, expressing only your thoughts. If the students do not seek to express themselves, you must make a determined effort to gather their thoughts. It is important that each student be aware of the fact that in electing a Council member she is abdicating neither her rights nor her responsibilities to make her voice heard.

Your office, as stated above, will require both perseverance and ingenuity. You will be called upon not only for opinions but also for action. You will be required to devise means to render student government relevant. Student Council cannot exist and should not exist for the sole purpose of perpetuating itself; you must transform it into an essential organization.

Certainly your challenge is clear. With the proposed changes in structure, you can make Student Council into something original and adaptive, serving as the vital force of the Student Association. Other groups of officers have had this opportunity in recent years. You will begin with a clean slate; if you fail, you cannot ascribe your failure to predecessors; you will have the whole Student Association, whom you represent, you will owe a debt of gratitude.

As of now, the Student Association: an amorphous and vague entity for which you are the only representatives.

A decision must be made immediately—do we unite for student recognition and power or do we remain divided to found.

Keynote for Students—Strength Through Unity

During the heat of the Presidential elections many people became intensely "pro" one candidate and "con" another opponent. The school was divided during the campaign. When asked which side they were on neither of the two candidates ran. Now it’s over. The results are in and we have a new Student Council President for the year.

Some students were arguing that the campaigns were unrewarding, that both camps were rehashing the thought and concern on campus. Apathy was not able to exist in this atmosphere. We were all working for the candidate of our choice, we were working for our own good as members of the Student Association...

ASCENT Open Letter To New Council Officers

An Open Letter to the newly elected officers of the Student Association:

The ASCENT congratulates you on your ascension of your new position and wishes you in advance good luck in your task. You are the product of the proposed re-structuring of student government, you are the first of yourselves in a unique position, to take the lead in the creation of many important precedent. A revised constitution is a powerful tool to mold the form of student government as you see fit it. The change stands as a tolerance to your ingenuity and perseverance.

The Student Council, with you, as members of the Executive Board, possesses and you represent an important portion of campus life. On the other hand, it could vitiate this power for personal and administrative reasons. You, as the officers of the Student Council and the Student Association, must choose the direction that student government will take.

In theory, you represent the student body. Your first job, therefore, must be to uncover that force which is supposedly all-powerful but frequently inarticulate: the student opinion. Student Government—Outlook Circa '65

The campaigning is over. The 1964-65 officers of the Student Association have been elected. All the candidates were not able to win. Some were not even able to lose. Some were able to win by a minute majority. It is impossible to understand the politics of modern student government and politics of modern student government. The campaign was divided and several groups were formed. Throughout the course of the campaigns there was division and controversy. The campaigns were divided to a greater extent than any previous Council.

The campaigns served to bring attention to the various positions that the candidates' parties held. The campaigns afforded a higher percentage of the primary vote required. The campaigns served to bring to the attention of the candidates their responsibilities as a group to the student body. The campaigns served to bring the attention of the candidates to the pressures that they face. The campaigns served to bring the attention of the candidates to the pressures that they face.

Miss Claudia Kuehn, '65, observed: "The campaigns served to bring the attention of the candidates to the pressures that they face. The campaigns served to bring the attention of the candidates to the pressures that they face. The campaigns served to bring to the attention of the candidates their responsibilities as a group to the student body.

Miss Kathleen Mets, '64, stressed that the campaigns were better this year because they were not confined to the fringes. She believed that the campaign's candidates and candidates served to bring the attention of the students' to the pressures that they face. Science Students Seek Employment as Chefs

Scientists are noted for experimenting, and those at Rosary Hill College have been no exception, particularly in the kitchen. For instance, the latest experiment of Kappa Sigma Fraternity's John Enright involved baking hamburgers, cookies, brownies, and corn poppers. Those in favor of the experiment were hungry students who could not resist the temptation to eat the baked goods, purchased each day, members of the club donate the baked goods, which was begun in September, 1961. A "coverage" would guarantee that the Red Cross would supply needed blood, to these people without demanding either payment or replacement. The coverage is good anywhere in the country.

In November, Rosary Hill students and faculty donated a total of 105 pints of blood, a mere sixty-five pints short of the quota. Since then, three more "coverage" units have been set and, if this goal was met, the quota can still be met! The next mobile unit will be at Rosary Hill College, April 3 to 5, at 27 March, Good Friday.

Aptly named "the Ad-Hoc Committee on the Blood Drive," the committee is composed of representatives from each of the area colleges: Canisius, D'Youville College, State Teachers College, State University College at Buffalo, and the Nursing School for the Blinds. Inter-Racial Panel Promotes Audience Dialogue on Integration

The Intercollegiate Affairs Committee of the Student Council held a panel at Rosary Hill College, Thursday night, March 7 at the request of the Student Council on campus.

The Council of Intercollegiate Affairs is a committee on campus to get to the root of the apathy problem they will try to determine if it is student apathy, or faculty apathy or a combination of the two. This will take place on Tuesday, March 10.

The Intercollegiate Affairs Committee held a panel on the topic of the residents' sentiments from each of the area colleges: Canisius, D'Youville College, State Teachers College, State University College at Buffalo, and the Nursing School for the Blinds.
