Some of the major contribution categories and their totals are corporate/business, $384,212; foundations, $264,551 and college community, $321,737.

Daemen College’s Forum of Ideas and Distinguished Lecture Series continues to crackle with excitement. No college or university under the canopy of heaven in Western New York can match this series for inspiring passion, joy and animation. The College feels that the link between intelligent controversy and knowledge is both intimate and sedentary.

Typical of the bill of fare is the unabashedly conservative editor in chief of the Washington Times, Arnaud de Borchgrave, who told a recent Forum luncheon that some elements of the American media are being duped by “Soviet disinformation” which is designed to further the Russian cause of world domination.

De Borchgrave, the former chief foreign correspondent for Newsweek Magazine, asserted that “the Soviets learned how easy it was to plant fraudulent information. . . . They must have concluded American naivete has reached epidemic proportions.”

In a recent de Borchgrave profile in Esquire, the magazine said that in a 33 year career, the veteran newsmen covered 17 wars and more than 90 countries and “traded gossip with Anwar Sadat, sipped tea with Phnom Van Dong in Hanoi and was a house­guest of King Hussain’s. . . . In a job that requires bluff and bravado, he has outrun the best of them.”

This is quite an accolade but de Borchgrave did not disappoint the Daemen luncheon.

Upcoming Forum speakers include Nicaraguan opposition leader Arturo J. Cruz, Lt. Gen. Willard Warren Scott Jr., superintendent of the United States Military Academy at West Point and Lois Haight Herrington, assistant U.S. attorney general in charge of the Office of Justice Programs in the Department of Justice.

Fasten your seatbelts. It’s going to be an ideologically bumpy ride!

Other recent Forum speakers have included El Salvador Ambassador to the United States Ernesto Rivas-Gallant, world famous philosopher Mortimer Adler, South Africa’s Ambassador to the United States B. G. Fourie, Ambassador to the U.S. Antonio Jacquin Toledo of left-leaning Nicaragua, and business executive Neal Gilliatt, a member of President Reagan’s Grace Commission which pinpointed $424-billion in federal governmental waste.

Daemen Director of Public Affairs Brian D. Risik, representing Daemen President Robert S. Marshall, received the Papal Blessing during a private audience with Pope John in Papal Palace Castel Gandolfo, near Rome.

The exchange program, which runs through 1987, involves four Daemen students and two professors visiting the Polish university while five Lublin professors and two students visit Daemen.

Daemen is just one of four U.S. colleges participating in the program.

United Jewish Fund

Generations of Service

Papal Visit - Lublin Exchange

His Holiness, Pope John II, recently blessed the new international exchange program for professors and students between Daemen College and the Catholic University of Lublin in Poland.

Daemen Director of Public Affairs Brian D. Risik, representing Daemen President Robert S. Marshall, received the Papal Blessing during a private audience with Pope John in Papal Palace Castel Gandolfo, near Rome.

The exchange program, which runs through 1987, involves four Daemen students and two professors visiting the Polish university while five Lublin professors and two students visit Daemen.

Daemen is just one of four U.S. colleges participating in the program.

The others are Harvard, the University of California at Berkley and the University of Notre Dame.

Founded in 1918, the Catholic University of Lublin is the only private, Christian University in the entire Communist block. Pope John formerly headed the faculty of ethics at Catholic University for 25 years.

Dr. Marshall took note of the great assistance of Father Cornelian Dende, director of the Father Justin Rosary Hour, in setting up the exchange program. Daemen College signed a formal agreement setting up the program with Bishop Professor Doctor Piotr Hemsper, rector of the Catholic University of Lublin.

Some 181 graduating Daemen College seniors were admonished to “accept change and welcome it with open arms” because “change is just another word for opportunity.”

The scene was Daemen’s thirty-fourth commencement ceremonies at Kleinhans Music Hall May 12 and the speaker was A. Neville Procter, the courtly former chairman of Dunlop North America who flatly predicted that the economically depressed Northeast will adopt to change and make a recovery.

“Today,” he asserted, “it is popular to think that we cannot compete with the Japanese. To this I say ‘RUBBISH.’ Does anyone here seriously think that (the Northeast) will become a wasteland in a few years? Of course not. But it will change.”

Even while noting that the U.S. is flooded with Japanese cars, cameras and radio and television equipment, Procter based his optimism on the fact that old U.S. ideas about manufacturing and labor are dying and giving way to new technologies and a better understanding between employers and employees.

“You show the world that you not only have a brain, but that you’re fully prepared to use it,” he told the graduates.

Procter, who helped manage Dunlop’s operations on four continents for 35 years, was awarded an honorary Doctor of Laws Degree by Charles L. Lumsden, chairman of Daemen’s Board of Trustees. Procter spoke before 181 graduating seniors at Kleinhans Music Hall.

Linda Jo Jones was awarded the James J. Oddy Medal for having the highest cumulative grade point average, 3.9, in her class.
